

Essay

Name : Tyolish-Jopno

Parish : Margherita

My aim in life

Aim means to focus one's attention to achieve something. Thus to have aim means to have strong determination of acquiring a particular thing that one has been focusing on. In simple words aim in life means what one wants to become in life. People have different aims in their lives. Some have the aim to become a doctor, engineer, scientist etc, while others have the aim to earn lot of money. One must have a particular aim in life because it can lead or direct a person towards a certain goal for which one has been yearning for. Above all one must aim to become a good and truthful citizen in a society. An aimless person is like a blowing wind which has no proper destiny.

I am in class 8 (ten). As a teenager I also have a aim in my life. My aim is to become a good priest. A priest is a ordained minister of Christ. His main duty is to offer mass and administer the sacraments. By doing these two works he does something which is not possible for a ordinary man to do, that is he brings souls to God and this is what God wants. For God does not want any person to be lost or die in sin and this is the very reason why, I want to become a priest, so that I may bring souls to God.

I have chosen this particular aim that is to become for more than one reason. Firstly, I want to surrender my life completely to Jesus Christ and preach about Him to all the people those who are still searching for true God and to those who are still in sin. I will also try my best to hear confession of all the people possible and take away the friends of devil and make them true friends of God as St. John Mary Vienny did.

Secondly, as a priest I will also do some act of charity that is to help the poor people. It is very sad to see that in our country government does very little for the welfare of the poor. So I have decided to hold seminar for those poor and uneducated people and tell them about the value of education, so that at least they may come up in their lives and in this way I can also preach about Jesus to them.

This is then how I have decided to become a priest. After passing my HSLC examination, I shall join St. Joseph's Minor Seminary and after completing my seminary life, I shall go to Chabua to learn more about Jesus and about my religion. From there I shall go ahead for higher studies till I become a priest. Since, I have a strong desire to become a priest my parents, relatives and my elders have promised to support me. If their support will always be with me then I hope that the Lord will surely choose me to be his priest.

At last I want to say that, "If you have started to run a race and know where you are going there is a winning point waiting for you." With this thought I will try to go ahead and try to become a good and zealous priest and also preacher of Christ.